

AIME AUSTIN

AUTHOR & PODCAST HOST

Aime Austin was born in Brooklyn, New York, and graduated from Smith College and Cornell Law School. She is the author of the Casey Cort and Nicole Long series of legal thriller, and is the host of the podcast, A Time to Thrill. Before writing full-time, Aime practiced family and criminal law in Cleveland, Ohio. When she's not writing crime fiction or interviewing brilliant creators, she's in a yoga pose, knitting, or reading. Aime currently splits her time between Los Angeles and Budapest.

FEATURED ON

INTERVIEW TOPICS

- How Aime's background in criminal defense and family law influences her writing
- Defining the genre "social thriller"
- Why it's important to Aime that she laces her novels with social commentary
- Aime's personal ties to domestic violence and how it drives her efforts to create conversation around this issue
- The role of travel in Aime's life; dividing her time between LA and Budapest

- The inspiration behind Aime's podcast, A Time to Thrill, and what she hopes to accomplish with each episode
- Themes in His Last Mistress and elements readers can expect to find in Aime's books moving forward

GET IN TOUCH

To book Aime for an interview, event, or Zoom meeting, please contact Hannah Larrew

✉ hannah@spellboundpublicrelations.com

🌐 aimeaustin.com

@legalthrillerauthor

@legalthrillerauthor

100K

podcast downloads

6K

email subscribers